⁵ This month, the Vermont Symphony Orchestra (VSO) will ⁶ collaborate with The Moth Radio Hour to weave powerful
⁷ storytelling into its "Made in Vermont" tour, an annual concert
⁸ series uplifting Vermont artists through music.

⁹ The tour will be stopping at the Bellows Falls Opera
¹⁰ House for a concert on Sunday, Nov. 16, from 4 to 6 p.m.

Conducted by VSO Music Director Andrew Crust, the 2025 "Made in Vermont" program centers around the concept of storytelling and the power of narrative through music. Storytellers from The Moth Radio Hour will narrate writings by poet Robert Frost and past U.S. President Calvin Coolidge, as well as their own personal tales — ranging from summer family camping adventures, to beauty pageants, to road trips—all set to live orchestral accompaniment by the VSO.

19 The program opens with Joaquín Turina's La oración del
20 torero (The Bullfighter's Prayer), a piece inspired by a bullfight in 21 a Madrid chapel, contrasting moments of quiet reflection with 22 bursts of energy.

23 Interspersed throughout the program are selections from 24 Edward Elgar, including "Sault d'amour," "Sospiri," and the 25 nature-inspired "Chanson de matin." The first half also features 26 contemporary Blackfoot composer Sonny-Ray Day Rider's The 27 Grief Eater Firaga, II. "Blood Elegy," an exploration of grief and 28 nature; and Leroy Anderson's playful classic "Plink, Plank, 29 Plunk."

30 The second half opens with movements from Edvard
31 Grieg's Holberg Suite, a tribute to Norwegian writer and 32 philosopher Ludvig Holberg, and concludes with Benjamin
33 Britten's "Simple Symphony," based on themes the composer
34 wrote as a child.

35 “This program takes the audience on a journey through 36 distinct eras and sound worlds—from Turina’s evocative Spanish
37 chapel to Elgar’s luminous melodic writing, and Britten’s
38 reflections on childhood,” Crust said in a news release. “Each 39 work conveys its own narrative through texture, color, and 40 emotion. Paired with The Moth’s storytellers, the result is a 41 layered, deeply immersive concert experience where spoken and 42 musical narratives intertwine.”
