4 Many initiatives, small and large, individual and 5 collective, have ramped up across the state and the country to 6 combat the sudden hunger crisis caused by the loss of SNAP
7 benefits at the start of November.

8 Here in Athens, Krista Gay and her husband, Christian 9 Rogerson, started their own Free Food Pantry at the bottom of 10 their driveway. Athens doesn't have a food pantry, and Krista
11 knew that many of her neighbors who are struggling with food

12 insecurity would also have a difficult time getting to the food
13 pantries in neighboring towns.

14 Having seen all the news about food benefits being cut 15 off due to the government shutdown, and being a progressive 16 Christian, Krista searched for a way that she could care for 17 neighbors who were struggling. Learning about a simple method 18 using totes gave them a plan they could immediately put into 19 action.

20 Incorporating an ethos of "Take what you need, leave 21 what you can," the Free Food Pantry offers food and dignity to 22 those making use of the pantry.

23 Krista shared their efforts on social media, creating a 24 TikTok about their #littlefreepantry adventures, with lots of great 25 tips on managing and restocking their pantry. Her video went 26 viral, gaining over 4 million views and bringing national media
27 attention from Newsweek, NBC, and People magazine.

28 Krista's Free Food Pantry initiative has helped to inspire
29 others across the country to start their own little food pantry.
30 Neighbors also want to know they can contribute and expand the 31 pantry.

32 Our town has now approved relocating it by the town
33 garage, and Krista and Christian are working on a more durable
34 design as winter approaches.

35 While the 3SquareVT/SNAP benefits have resumed for 36 now, harmful cuts and changes from H.R. 1, signed into law on 37 July 4, are already impacting our neighbors, meaning many 38 people in our town, in our state, and from across the country
39 have already lost or seen significant cuts to their food benefits.

40 Bravo to Krista for stepping up and showing how we can 41 all lend a hand to care for our neighbors.
