4 Brattleboro Development Credit Corporation (BDCC) will 5 host the first session of the Windham County Leadership series on 6 Monday, Dec. 22.

7 The event, which includes lunch, will be from 11:30
8 a.m. to 1 p.m., at the Brattleboro Retreat Education Conference
9 Center, at 1 Anna Marsh Lane. Parking is available on-site and 10 signs guide the way to the meeting location. Register at 11 tinyurl.com/2vj9ehad.

12 The program will feature Kevin Chu, executive director
13 of the Vermont Futures Project, a nonpartisan organization
14 answering the mission question: "How can we use data to 15 support the evolution of Vermont's economy towards a thriving
16 future with opportunity for all?"

17 The session, called "Vermont's Futures: Numbers,
18 Narrative, and What Comes Next," will focus on new research 19 and insights that organizers say will help frame the economic 20 landscape in a way that helps organizations, communities, and 21 long-range planning.

22 Chu will guide a conversation about forces shaping
23 Vermont's economic landscape and what Vermont's latest 24 workforce, housing, and demographic indicators mean for the 25 region today. He will highlight current data, surface emerging 26 trends, and create space for direct, useful conversations about 27 where strategic opportunities are emerging.

28 According to BDCC, the Windham Leadership Series
29 "brings together leaders from across the region who want access
30 to timely information and clear data for meaningful cross-sector
31 discussion about the forces moving our economy. Each session
32 features a speaker who's achieving results, someone with 33 practical experience, strong data, or insights that help us see new 34 possibilities for Windham County."
