⁴ I recently read a fascinating article in Smithsonian about ⁵ Robert H. Jackson, a chief prosecutor for the United States in the ⁶ 1940s and later a Supreme Court justice.

⁷ He is most well-known for his role in the Nuremberg
⁸ trials, during which he addressed the International Military
⁹ Tribunal about the atrocities committed by the Nazis in World
¹⁰ War II. He made the case to the international panel of judges at 11 war's end in 1945–46 and helped to draft the charter that 12 ultimately created the legal basis for the historical trial.

13 Jackson "remains the only person in U.S. history to serve 14 as solicitor general, attorney general and Supreme Court justice," 15 according to the article. Thanks to his leadership, "a new 16 standard in international law was established, and the worst
17 criminal conspiracy in human history exposed [...]." He was a
18 truly remarkable man who also worked closely with President
19 Roosevelt as an advisor.

20 But this piece is not intended as a history lesson; believe 21 it or not, I am writing in defense of small schools as we here in 22 Marlboro, where we are on the brink of closing ours down after 23 more than two centuries of educating our students in our own 24 town.

25 What does the Honorable Judge Jackson have to do with 26 any of this? Just this: He graduated at the top of his high school 27 class of three.

28 It's not how small the student body is that matters, it's 29 what you do with it.
