4 For anyone interested in Hitler, drug use, and the Nazi 5 party, I strongly recommend reading the book Blitzed: Drugs in 6 Nazi Germany, by Norman Ohler.

7 The book details Hitler’s attack on drug use among the 8 general population — many who were in a state of depression
9 and PTSD due to losing World War I — during the beginning of 10 his rise.

11 At that time, Germany became a pharmaceutical 12 powerhouse, creating cocaine, opiates, and methamphetamines, 13 wonder drugs for a depressed and broken society. Much of the 14 adult population became addicted to the readily available
15 “miracle drugs.”

16 Hitler saw this as an opportunity. By declaring opiates
17 illegal, his regime now had further reason to terrorize Jews, gays, 18 immigrants, dissidents, and anyone with different skin color. He 19 attacked them, rounded them up, and placed them in 20 concentration camps.

21 He made a huge drug policy shift and put huge sums of 22 money into opiate and crystal meth stimulant production for the 23 military. Vast pharmaceutical plants began making stimulant
24 drugs in enormous quantities for the army. These drugs were now 25 legal only within the military.

26 By this time, a full-time doctor at Hitler’s side reportedly 27 injected him with a mixture of cocaine, heroin, crystal meth, and 28 other various cocktails four to five times a day.

29 When Hitler would deliver his long, fueled speeches, he 30 was in a state of godlike euphoria. It is well-documented that the 31 gestapo and Hitler’s army were given vast quantities of crystal
32 meth to sustain their blitzkrieg on Jews and anyone who did not 33 submit. That is how they were able to murder and plunder for 34 days due to the speed.

35 Eventually this resulted in the demise of the German 36 army as they fell ill and froze due to addiction, starvation, and 37 poor support.

38 Fast-forward to 2016 when Donald Trump was debating
39 Hillary Clinton. His sniffing and erratic behavior clearly 40 suggested cocaine use.

41 Could our president also be addicted to various drugs
42 that fuel his energy and rage? Rolling Stone reported rampant
43 drug use and easy access for White House staffers to stimulants
44 and sedatives in the current administration, through the White
45 House Medical Unit.

46 One also wonders about his supporters who stormed the 47 capital, or the current Immigration and Customs Enforcement
48 (ICE) agents who appear to be on their own blitzkrieg: murdering,
49 assaulting, and terrorizing all of us. We have more than 100
50 “detention” centers in the U.S., arresting and holding people with 51 no legal support or due process.

52 Is this mob of fascists also fueled with stimulants? Take a 53 look at the photos of Trump’s hands. The back of both hands are 54 seriously damaged and bruised. Could our president also be 55 addicted to mind-altering drugs? Is this not the regime that takes 56 pride in blowing up boats they suspect have drugs, with no due 57 process or law, but then also pardons known drug lords and 58 politicians? Control the drugs, control the people? Apparently, 59 they have a good stash.

60 The press secretary said Trump’s condition was from “too 61 much handshaking.” What? On both hands? The wool is 62 beginning to hurt my eyes! Help!

63 It’s time we abolished blitzkriegs and all that they stand
64 for. The times they are a-changin’. Let’s bring on the real 65 democracy that stands up for all.
