4 Celebrating its 75th anniversary season this summer,
5 Marlboro Music — the chamber music school and festival under 6 the artistic leadership of pianists Mitsuko Uchida and Jonathan
7 Biss — will bring together some 80 exceptional musicians from 8 around the world for seven weeks of intensive musical 9 collaboration, exploration, and performance.

10 “For 75 years, Marlboro Music has been a place unlike 11 any other,” wrote organizers in a news release, “an idealistic

12 experiment where extraordinary musicians gather to explore 13 music in depth, across generations, in a spirit of discovery and 14 collaboration.”

15 Throughout the summer, Marlboro artists of diverse ages,
16 backgrounds, and perspectives will explore chamber music
17 works in depth, with unlimited time and ideal conditions. Those 18 groups that feel they have gotten to the very heart of the music 19 will then present to the public the results of their efforts during 20 five weekends of concerts and open rehearsals, from July 18 to 21 Aug. 16, on the Marlboro Music campus on Potash Hill.

22 Tickets for the 2026 Marlboro Music summer season are 23 on sale at marlboromusic.org and through the Marlboro Box
24 Office, 215-569-4690.

25 Open rehearsals begin the week of July 13; schedules are 26 announced at the beginning of each week.

27 Concert tickets are $20–40. Performances take place in 28 Persons Auditorium on Saturday evenings at 8 p.m., and Sunday
29 afternoons at 2:30 pm, as well as on Friday, Aug. 7, and Friday,
30 Aug. 14, at 8 pm. The Aug. 7 performance is the annual Marlboro
31 Music Town Benefit Concert, with all proceeds supporting 32 Marlboro town organizations.
