Scott Farm and Putney Foodshelf are partnering for a Crêpe Night Wednesday, July 8.

Crêpe Nights are family friendly gatherings, held regularly at Scott Farm, 707 Kipling Rd., from May through August. They are times “to celebrate the harvest, good simple food, and community in a stunning setting—picnic style,” wrote organizers in a news release.

12 The event runs from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $25 for 13 adults or $12 for children under 12, and must be purchased in 14 advance. Each ticket comes with a savory supper crêpe (galette), 15 sweet dessert crêpe, and side salad. Drinks are available for 16 purchase.

17 Music will be provided by Rich Grumbine and Bill 18 Conley who play a variety of genres on guitar, dobro, flute, and 19 voice. Outdoor and indoor tables and chairs are provided as well 20 as a sprawling grassy hillside ripe for picnic blankets, folding 21 lawn chairs, and bare feet.

22 Crêpe Nights are “a perfect Vermont summer evening
23 and a powerful way to support organizations in our community
24 doing important work,” Scott Farm General Manager Simon
25 Renault said in the news release.

26 “As the very first organization to co-host a Crêpe Night 27 five years ago, we are excited to be returning and to amplify our 28 work through the medium that matters most to us — delicious 29 food!” said Putney Foodshelf Executive Director Hannah Pick.

30 Proceeds from the event will support their ongoing work
31 of nourishing community members throughout Putney, 32 Brattleboro, Dummerston, Westminster, and surrounding towns.

33 Tickets are limited. Additional information and tickets 34 can be purchased online at scottfarmvermont.com/crepe-night.

35 The final Crêpe Night will take place Aug. 5, with 36 Vermont Independent Media, publishers of The Commons and 37 The Deerfield Valley News, as the co-host and beneficiary of the 38 event.
